like the rest of the industrialized world canada is in the midst of an economic crisis that is clearly of global proportions yet many prominent economists including nobel prize winners failed to see it coming this is unsurprising since in the words of a newly humble alan greenspan the crisis revealed a flaw in the model that defines the way the world works bankruptcies and bailouts explain the roots of this economic disaster the essays in this book show in clear and accessible language that the global capitalist economy dependent on hyper extended credit fuelled by systematic deregulation and rooted in the contradictions of a mad drive for unlimited profitability must inevitably end up in this predicament the authors also demonstrate that there are ways out of this economic mess that do not involve simply bailing out the obscenely over paid executive whose decisions led us to this chaos résumé de l éditeur in 1984 r edward freeman published his landmark book strategic management a stakeholder approach a work that set the agenda for what we now call stakeholder theory in the intervening years the literature on stakeholder theory has become vast and diverse this book examines this body of research and assesses its relevance for our understanding of modern business beginning with a discussion of the origins and development of stakeholder theory it shows how this corpus of theory has influenced a variety of different fields including strategic management finance accounting management marketing law health care public policy and environment it also features in depth discussions of two important areas that stakeholder theory has helped to shape and define business ethics and corporate social responsibility the book concludes by arguing that we should re frame capitalism in the terms of stakeholder theory so that we come to see business as creating value for stakeholders master s thesis from the year 2009 in the subject business economics business management corporate governance grade 17 20 1 3 solvay brussels school of economics and management course international master in management science language english abstract this study derives a model of stakeholder management in small and medium sized enterprises which describes the process from the owner managers personal ethics to the firm s eventual engagement with its stakeholders following a thorough review of literature published on stakeholder theory ethical behaviour in organizations and small and medium sized companies five hypotheses are put forward on which the model is based the results of three case studies on owner managed micro enterprises from the belgian beer producing industry are used to test the validity of the model and the hypotheses the results of the case studies on belgian micro breweries support the major part of the proposed sme stakeholder management model and the hypotheses it is based on the perception of legitimate stakeholders is based on the personal ethics of the owner manager these are determined by the owner manager s preference for a certain normative core and his stage of cognitive moral development perceived stakeholders will possess power over the company and or have a legitimate moral or legal claim on the firm individual and situational moderators exist which can influence the transition from the owner manager s personal ethic to his perception of important stakeholders relevant individual factors are the owner manager s type and length of education and employment family background culture and nationality as well as his locus of control situational influences found to be important are the views of relevant peers psychological sanctions and rewards moral intensity and moral framing the company s actual stakeholder management depends on whom the owner manager perceives to be legitimate stakeholders it may be instrumentally driven or normatively and can occur in a cooperative or competitive manner the transition from stakeholder perception to actual stakeholder management can be affected by internal characteristics of the firm and by external environmental circumstances capital constraints and the need for the owner manager to engage into fire fighting activities are discovered as influential internal characteristics external environmental circumstances that exert an influence on the process are the specific characteristics of the brewing industry power balances between the firms and their stakeholders and social legislation as part of the pestel factors
